Levels 4-6: In development

A six-level primary course designed for 5/6–11/12-year-olds

Gateway offers a perfect balance of the four language skills and enables students to think, reflect and react in the target language because it is based on the following premises:

- Most of the students start formal education at age six. Therefore, the creativity and innovation skills children have at this age have been taken as a point from where to start building knowledge.
- Thinking and physical skills are basic issues to consider in teaching a foreign language to children; therefore, all activities in the series include a true approach towards developing these skills in direct relationship to the real world that surrounds the learners.
- Because children grow within their own thinking and learning skills towards recognition, understanding and use of the new concepts, this series takes the students from a True Beginner Level (A1) to a Low Intermediate Level (B1), meaning that, though it offers a balance between the four language skills, there will be an emphasis on the writing skill as the series grows, enabling students to become much more self-assured and self-independent learners in the new language as they prepare themselves to continue learning English in upper school levels.
